

Monday Morning Light ... continues

Anne Wondra

Sun shining through windows. Sweet Monday mornings ... a brand new week.

I'm inspired and excited to continue offering these Monday Morning Light Women's Spirit Circle call-ins, Monday mornings at 10 am CENTRAL (Your Time Here).

I LOVE sun shining in my space and face; it energized me to create, to write, to soak in grace and receive ideas that flow in; and I want to hold space for Monday Mornings we look forward to; a time when our souls, self-esteem, and social lives are fed, and our creative juices inspired.

Many introspective life travelers are alone a lot; it's our nature and that of the work we do in this world.

And yet, there's a part of us that craves a soul-feeding support system and structure of connecting with others like us. I hold this hour Monday mornings for all of us.

About Me – Why I Offer these:

I don't think I came to this earth to be invisible. I think I came to be a light; to be a comfort, a companion, a guide, a soul whisperer; one who empowers the spirit of joy and vibrance, self-awareness and awakening, and warms and reassures with words. I write because the words flow...and because the words I write are ones only I can say, ones that I need to write because they are part of my becoming, living who I am here to be...or maybe the words I write are the exact words someone reading this or that post needs... I call it following the muse....being me. I love cats, art, coffee, Michael, and beaches...not necessarily in that order; and I'm a vegetarian and humane society volunteer. You'll find more and some free stuff at WonderSpirit.com.
